Chương 1

Part 1: Personal & General Topics

1.1 Work or Studies

What work do you do?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Well, I'm currently a third-year university student majoring in Business Administration. Most of my time is taken up by attending lectures and working on group assignments. I haven't started a formal job yet, but I occasionally do freelance graphic design on the side to earn some pocket money and build up my portfolio.

What subjects are you studying?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

I'm taking a range of subjects like marketing, corporate finance, and microeconomics. To be honest, marketing is hands down my favourite because it lets me unleash my creativity rather than just crunching numbers all day long.

Do you like your subject?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Absolutely! Even though the workload can be quite overwhelming at times, I find most of my subjects genuinely practical. Learning the ropes of how real businesses operate gives me a solid foundation for my future career aspirations, so it feels very rewarding in the long run.

Why did you choose to study that subject?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Well, to be honest, I've always been fascinated by how companies market their products and influence consumer behaviour. On top of that, my older sister runs a small online business, and watching her sparked my interest in understanding the business world from the inside.

1.2 Hometown

Where is your hometown?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

My hometown is Da Nang, a coastal city in central Vietnam. It's become increasingly popular as a tourist destination over the past decade, thanks to its stunning beaches and the iconic Dragon Bridge. I'm really proud to be from there, actually.

Do you like your hometown?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Oh, definitely! There's a lot to love about Da Nang. The pace of life is much more laid-back compared to big cities like Ho Chi Minh City, and you can literally walk to the beach in ten minutes from almost anywhere downtown. It really strikes a great balance between modern development and natural beauty.

What do you like most about your hometown?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

I think what I cherish most is the food culture. Da Nang is famous for dishes like Mi Quang and Banh Xeo, and you can find incredible street food stalls on practically every corner. The local cuisine is not only delicious but also really affordable, which is a huge plus for a student like me.

Is there anything you dislike about it?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

If I had to pick something, I'd say the weather can be pretty extreme. During the rainy season from October to December, the city often gets hit by severe flooding, which disrupts daily life quite a bit. But apart from that, I honestly can't complain much.

1.3 Home and Accommodation

Do you live in an apartment or a house?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Right now I'm renting a small apartment near my university campus. It's nothing fancy — just a studio with a tiny kitchen — but it's cosy enough for one person. The best part is that it's within walking distance of the campus, so I save quite a bit on transportation.

What part of your home do you like the most?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

I'd have to say my desk area by the window. It overlooks a small garden, which is very calming when I'm studying or doing assignments late at night. I've set it up with a reading lamp and some potted plants, so it feels like my own little productive corner.

Do you plan to live there for a long time?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Probably not, to be honest. Once I graduate, I'm planning to relocate to a bigger city like Ho Chi Minh City to pursue better career opportunities. But for the time being, this place serves its purpose perfectly well and the rent is within my budget, so I'm pretty content.

What kind of house or apartment do you want to live in in the future?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Ideally, I'd love to own a modern apartment with a balcony in the city centre, somewhere with plenty of natural light and enough space for a proper home office. I think having a dedicated workspace at home is becoming essential, especially with the rise of remote working.

1.4 Morning Time

Do you like getting up early in the morning?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Honestly, I'm not really a morning person. I tend to stay up late studying or scrolling through social media, so waking up early feels like a real struggle. But on the days when I do manage to get up early, I notice that I'm far more productive throughout the day, so I'm trying to make it a habit.

What do you usually do in the morning?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

It depends on the day, really. On weekdays, I usually wake up, brush my teeth, and have a quick breakfast — normally just some bread and coffee — before heading to my first lecture. On weekends, though, I give myself the luxury of sleeping in and then maybe going for a walk around the neighbourhood.

Is the morning time important to you?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Yes, I think it is, even though I'm not great at utilising it. Studies show that mornings are when our brains are freshest, so it makes sense to tackle the most challenging tasks during that time. I've noticed that when I have a structured morning routine, the rest of my day tends to go much more smoothly.

Từ	Loại	IPA	English Meaning	Dịch nghĩa
morning person	n phr	/ˈmɔː.nɪŋ ˈpɜː.sən/	someone who feels best in the morning	người thích dậy sớm

1.5 Spare Time

What do you usually do in your spare time?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

In my spare time, I'm really into watching YouTube tutorials about digital design — it ties in nicely with my graphic design side hustle. Apart from that, I enjoy hanging out with my friends at local cafés or binge-watching Korean dramas when I need to unwind after a long week.

Do you think you have enough spare time?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Not really, to be honest. Between attending classes, studying for exams, and doing my freelance work, there isn't much time left over. I sometimes feel like I'm juggling too many things at once, which can be quite draining. But I think that's pretty typical for university students these days.

Has the way you spend your free time changed since you were young?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Definitely. When I was a kid, I used to spend most of my free time playing outdoors with friends, like riding bicycles or playing hide and seek. Now, my leisure time is much more screen-based — whether it's watching videos, browsing social media, or working on design projects. I suppose that's just part of growing up in the digital age.

Từ	Loại	IPA	English Meaning	Dịch nghĩa
be into	phr v	/bi: 'ɪn.tu:/	to be very interested in	thích, đam mê

1.6 Day Off

When is your day off?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

I usually have Sundays completely free because my university doesn't schedule any classes that day. Saturdays are hit or miss though — sometimes I have group project meetings or need to catch up on assignments. So Sunday is the one day I can truly relax without feeling guilty.

What do you usually do on your day off?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

I usually start the day by sleeping in until around nine or ten, then I'll grab brunch with a couple of friends at a nearby café. In the afternoon, I might browse some bookshops or just chill at home watching Netflix. I try to make the most of it because weekdays are always packed with deadlines.

Do you think it is important to have days off?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Oh, absolutely. I think days off are essential for both mental and physical well-being. Without them, people would burn out very quickly. Having time to recharge helps you come back to your work or studies feeling refreshed and more focused. It's really a matter of balance — all work and no play is simply not sustainable.

Từ	Loại	IPA	English Meaning	Dịch nghĩa
hit or miss	adj phr	/hɪt ɔːr mɪs/	unpredictable, inconsistent	không chắc chắn
catch up on	phr v	/kætʃ ʌp ɒn/	to complete something you missed	bắt kịp, hoàn thành

1.7 Having a Break

Do you usually take a break during work or study?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Oh yes, absolutely. I find that taking short breaks every hour or so helps me stay focused and avoid burnout. I usually get up, stretch a bit, or grab a cup of coffee. If I push through for too long without stopping, my concentration drops significantly and I end up making careless mistakes.

What do you usually do during a break?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

It varies. Sometimes I just scroll through some memes on my phone or chat with classmates about random stuff. Other times, I'll step outside for some fresh air, especially if I've been cramming for an exam. I think even a five-minute change of scenery can do wonders for your productivity.

Do you think breaks are important?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Without a doubt. There's actually scientific evidence suggesting that regular breaks boost cognitive function and creativity. The Pomodoro Technique, for example, recommends working in 25-minute intervals followed by short breaks, and many people swear by it. I think the key is finding a rhythm that works for you personally.

Từ	Loại	IPA	English Meaning	Dịch nghĩa
stay focused	v phr	/steɪ 'fəʊ.kəst/	to maintain concentration	giữ tập trung swear by	phr v	/sweər baɪ/	to strongly believe in something	tin tưởng tuyệt đối

1.8 Going Out

How often do you go out?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

I'd say about two or three times a week, usually in the evenings after finishing my classes. I mostly go out to grab dinner with friends or visit a café to study in a different environment. On special occasions, like someone's birthday, we might go to a karaoke place or a rooftop bar, but that's not a regular thing.

Where do you usually go when you go out?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

I'm a huge fan of cosy little cafés, so most of my outings revolve around those. There's a place near my university called The Coffee House that I particularly love because it has good Wi-Fi and a peaceful atmosphere for studying. Apart from cafés, I also enjoy exploring night markets when I want something more lively and social.

Do you prefer going out alone or with friends?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

It really depends on my mood. When I need some quiet time to recharge or think things over, I prefer going out alone — maybe a solo walk along the river or a visit to a bookstore. But most of the time, I enjoy company because socialising energises me and makes everyday activities like eating out much more enjoyable.

Từ	Loại	IPA	English Meaning	Dịch nghĩa

socialise	v	/ˈsəʊ.ʃəl.aɪz/	to interact with others	giao lưu

1.9 Walking

Do you walk a lot?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Yes, quite a lot actually. Since my apartment is close to the university, I walk to campus almost every day. It takes about fifteen minutes, which I find is a nice opportunity to clear my head before classes. I also walk around the neighbourhood after dinner sometimes, just to get some exercise and fresh air.

Where did you go for a walk lately?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Just last weekend, I went for a long walk along the Han River waterfront. The weather was perfect — not too hot, with a nice breeze — so I put on my earphones and just strolled along for about an hour. It was incredibly relaxing and a great way to decompress after a stressful week of exams.

Why do people like to walk in parks?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

I think it's because parks offer a peaceful escape from the hustle and bustle of city life. Being surrounded by greenery and hearing birds singing can be really therapeutic. For many people, walking in parks is also a social activity — they go with family or friends, or even join outdoor exercise groups. It's basically a free, accessible way to improve both physical and mental well-being.

Từ	Loại	IPA	English Meaning	Dịch nghĩa

1.10 Hobby

Do you have any hobbies?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Yes, I do! My main hobby is digital illustration — I love creating artwork on my tablet using apps like Procreate. I picked it up about two years ago and I've been hooked ever since. It's become more than just a hobby, actually, because I sometimes take on small freelance projects through it.

Did you have any hobbies when you were a child?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Oh, for sure. When I was younger, I was really into building model kits — you know, those little plastic aeroplane and car models that you assemble piece by piece. I could spend hours meticulously gluing parts together and painting them. It taught me patience and attention to detail, which I think still benefit me today.

Do you have a hobby that you've had since childhood?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Come to think of it, drawing is something I've always enjoyed, even from a very young age. Of course, my style has evolved enormously — from colourful crayon doodles to digital art — but the core passion for visual creativity has remained constant throughout my life.

Chương 2

Part 2 & 3: Cue Cards & Discussion Topics

2.1 Describe a city you enjoyed visiting

IELTS Part 2 — Cue Card

Describe a city you enjoyed visiting. You should say:

- Where it is
- When you visited it
- How long you stayed there
- What you did there
- And explain why you enjoyed visiting it.

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Well, off the top of my head, I'd love to talk about my trip to Hoi An, a charming ancient town in central Vietnam. I visited there last summer with a couple of close friends right after our final exams, and we ended up staying for about five days.

To be honest, I was absolutely blown away by the atmosphere. The old town is lined with beautiful yellow-walled houses, colourful lanterns hanging everywhere, and narrow cobblestone streets that make you feel like you've stepped back in time. During the day, we wandered around the Japanese Covered Bridge and visited some local tailor shops — Hoi An is famous for its custom-made clothing. In the evenings, we'd sit by the Thu Bon River, release paper lanterns, and just soak in the peaceful vibes.

What really made the trip special was the food. We tried Cao Lau, a noodle dish unique to Hoi An, and I must say it was out of this world. The combination of chewy noodles, crispy pork, and fresh herbs was simply unforgettable.

Come to think of it, the reason I enjoyed Hoi An so much was that it offered the perfect blend of culture, history, and relaxation. It wasn't overcrowded like some other tourist spots, and the locals were incredibly warm and welcoming. I'd go back there in a heartbeat.

Part 3 — Discussion Questions

1. What kinds of facilities do big cities have?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Big cities typically offer a wide range of public facilities such as modern hospitals, well-equipped schools, shopping malls, and efficient public transport systems like metros. On top of that, you'd find entertainment venues like cinemas, parks, and sports complexes. These are the things that really set major cities apart from smaller towns.

2. Do you think modern cities are suitable for young people or old people?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

I'd say modern cities tend to be more tailored to young people because they offer more job opportunities, vibrant social scenes, and faster-paced lifestyles. That said, older people might struggle with the noise, pollution, and high cost of living. However, some cities are making efforts to become more elderly-friendly by improving healthcare services and creating more green spaces.

3. Before you travel to a city, what factors would you consider?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

There are quite a few things I'd look into. First and foremost, I'd check the weather forecast so I can pack appropriately. I'd also research local attractions, accommodation options, and the food scene. As a student, budget is always a key concern, so I'd compare prices for flights and hostels beforehand. Safety is another important factor — I always check travel advisories.

2.2 Describe a person who likes to look after the natural world

IELTS Part 2 — Cue Card

Describe a person who likes to look after the natural world. You should say:

- Who this person is
- What he or she does
- How he or she does it
- And explain how you feel about this person.

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

I'd like to talk about my biology teacher, Ms. Lan, who is genuinely passionate about protecting the environment. She's been teaching at my school for over ten years, and what sets her apart is her hands-on approach to environmental education.

She doesn't just talk about sustainability in the classroom — she actually practises what she preaches. Every month, she organises beach clean-up campaigns where she takes students to nearby coastal areas to collect plastic waste and raise awareness about marine pollution. She also maintains a community garden at the school where students learn to grow organic vegetables without using harmful pesticides.

What I admire most is her consistency. Rain or shine, she never misses a single clean-up event. She even spends her weekends volunteering at a local wildlife rescue centre, helping to rehabilitate injured birds and turtles.

I have tremendous respect for her because she's living proof that one individual can make a meaningful difference. She's inspired me and many of my classmates to be more mindful of our environmental footprint.

Part 3 — Discussion Questions

1. Do you think parents should teach their children how to protect the environment?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Absolutely. Environmental awareness should start at home because children tend to model their parents' behaviour. Simple habits like separating waste, saving water, and reducing plastic use can be instilled from an early age. If parents lead by example, their children are far more likely to grow into environmentally responsible adults.

2. What laws about the environment are effective in your country?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

In Vietnam, there have been recent regulations aimed at cutting down on single-use plastics, which have shown promising results. Many supermarkets now charge for plastic bags, and some cities have banned Styrofoam food containers. However, enforcement is still inconsistent. Overall, the legal framework is improving, but there's a long way to go.

3. Is it important to teach students environmental protection at school?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

I strongly believe it is. Schools have the unique advantage of reaching a large number of young minds at once. If environmental education is woven into the curriculum through hands-on activities like gardening or nature walks, students will develop a genuine connection with nature rather than seeing conservation as just another textbook topic.

2.3 Describe a short-term job you want to have in a foreign country

IELTS Part 2 — Cue Card

Describe a short-term job you want to have in a foreign country. You should say:

- Where it is
- How you know of it
- What the job is
- And explain why you want to do it.

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

If I had the chance, I'd love to work as a barista at a specialty coffee shop in Melbourne, Australia, for about three to six months. I first learned about this opportunity through a gap-year travel blog on Instagram, and I've been dreaming about it ever since.

Melbourne has this incredible cafe culture that's famous worldwide. The city is packed with independent coffee shops that take their craft really seriously — from hand-poured pour-overs to latte art competitions. As someone who's already obsessed with coffee, working there would be like a masterclass in the art of brewing.

What really appeals to me is not just the work itself, but the whole experience of living abroad. I'd get to practise my English in a native-speaking environment, meet people from different cultural backgrounds, and develop transferable skills like customer service and time management. The main reason I want this job is that it would push me out of my comfort zone and give me a taste of independence before I graduate.

Part 3 — Discussion Questions

1. What short-term jobs do young people do in other countries?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

A lot of young people take up jobs in the hospitality sector, like working as hotel receptionists, tour guides, or waiters. Teaching English is another popular option, especially in Asian countries. Some also do farm work through programs like WWOOF, which lets you work on organic farms in exchange for accommodation and meals.

2. What challenges do young people face when working abroad?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

The biggest challenge is probably the language barrier. Even if you speak English well, understanding local slang or accents can be really tricky at first. Cultural differences are another hurdle — things like workplace etiquette and communication styles can vary dramatically. Homesickness is also a real issue for those who've never been away from their families for an extended period.

3. What are the benefits of working for an international company?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

There are numerous advantages. First, you get exposure to diverse perspectives and working styles, which broadens your professional horizons. International companies also tend to offer more competitive salaries and better training programmes. Perhaps most importantly, the cross-cultural communication skills you develop can open doors to career opportunities you might never have imagined.

2.4 Describe a time when you gave advice to others

IELTS Part 2 — Cue Card

Describe a time when you gave advice to others. You should say:

- When it was
- To whom you gave the advice
- What the advice was
- And explain why you gave the advice.

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

This actually happened just a few months ago when my best friend, Minh, was stressing out about choosing his university major. He was torn between pursuing computer science, which his parents wanted, and graphic design, which was his true passion.

I could see he was really struggling, so I sat down with him over coffee and shared my perspective. I told him that while it's important to consider his parents' wishes, at the end of the day, he'd be the one spending four years studying the subject. So my advice was to follow his passion but also do thorough research into the career prospects of graphic design — basically to show his parents that it's a viable career path.

I gave him this advice because I had gone through a similar dilemma myself when choosing between business and fine arts. I ended up picking business, which I don't regret, but I've always wished someone had encouraged me to think more carefully about what truly makes me happy.

In the end, Minh decided to major in graphic design, and he's absolutely thriving now. He even landed a freelance gig recently, so I'm really glad I spoke up.

Part 3 — Discussion Questions

1. Should people prepare before giving advice?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Definitely. Good advice requires some thought and perhaps even research beforehand. If you just blurt out whatever comes to mind without considering the other person's situation, your advice might do more harm than good. Taking time to understand the full picture shows genuine care and increases the likelihood that your advice will be helpful.

2. Is it good to ask advice from strangers online?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

It can be useful in certain situations, like getting product recommendations or technical help. However, I'd be cautious about seeking personal or medical advice from strangers because you never know their qualifications or intentions. There's also the risk of misinformation. So it's fine as a starting point, but you should always verify what you read.

3. What are the problems if you ask too many people for advice?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

The main issue is information overload. When you consult too many people, you end up with conflicting opinions, which can make decision-making even more confusing. It can also lead to analysis paralysis — where you spend so much time weighing viewpoints that you never actually make a decision. Sometimes it's better to trust your own judgement.

2.5 Describe a person who often helps others

IELTS Part 2 — Cue Card

Describe a person who often helps others. You should say:

- Who this person is
- How this person helps others
- How you know about this person
- And explain why you think this person likes to help others.

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

The person I'd like to describe is my class representative, Huy. He's been in my study group since our freshman year, and he's one of the most selfless people I've ever met. What stands out about Huy is that he goes out of his way to help classmates who are struggling academically. Before every major exam, he organises free tutoring sessions in the library where he explains complex concepts in a really approachable way. He even creates shared Google Drive folders with neatly organised notes and past exam papers.

Beyond academics, Huy is also active in volunteer work. He coordinates blood donation drives on campus and has been mentoring underprivileged high school students on weekends for the past two years.

I think the reason Huy enjoys helping others is that he genuinely finds fulfilment in seeing people succeed. He once told me that growing up in a low-income family taught him the value of community support, and he wants to pay it forward whenever he can.

Part 3 — Discussion Questions

1. What can children do to help their parents?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Children can contribute in many practical ways. Simple tasks like tidying up their rooms, washing the dishes, or helping with grocery shopping can make a significant difference. As they get older, they can take on more responsibility, such as cooking simple meals or looking after younger siblings.

2. Should children help their parents with household chores?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

I strongly believe they should. Doing household chores teaches children essential life skills like time management, discipline, and a sense of responsibility. It also helps them understand that maintaining a home is a shared effort. Research shows children who participate in chores tend to become more empathetic and cooperative adults.

3. Why are employees reluctant to ask their managers for help?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

I think many employees fear being perceived as incompetent or weak. There's often pressure to appear self-sufficient, especially in competitive work environments. Some also worry that seeking help might negatively affect their performance reviews. However, asking for guidance when needed is actually a sign of self-awareness and professionalism.

2.6 Describe one of your friends who learned something without a teacher

IELTS Part 2 — Cue Card

Describe one of your friends who learned something without a teacher. You should say:

- Who this person is
- What he/she learned
- How he/she learned it
- And explain how you felt about it.

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

I'd like to talk about my roommate, Tuan, who taught himself how to play the guitar entirely through YouTube tutorials. This was about two years ago, during the pandemic lockdown when we were all stuck at home with lots of free time.

Tuan had always wanted to learn guitar but never had the money for formal lessons. So one day, he bought a second-hand acoustic guitar from an online marketplace and started watching beginner tutorials. The first few weeks were pretty painful to listen to — wrong chords everywhere — but he was incredibly persistent and practised for at least an hour every day.

What impressed me most was his systematic approach. He created a structured learning plan, starting with basic chords, then strumming patterns, and eventually full songs. Within about six months, he could play popular songs really fluently, and now he even writes his own music.

I was genuinely amazed because it showed me that with discipline and the right resources, you can teach yourself almost anything. It actually motivated me to start learning digital illustration on my own.

Part 3 — Discussion Questions

1. Is it necessary to keep learning after graduating from school?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Absolutely. In today's rapidly evolving world, knowledge from school can become outdated within a few years. Lifelong learning is essential to stay competitive in the job market and adapt to new technologies. Learning doesn't have to be formal — reading books, taking online courses, or learning from colleagues all count.

2. Should teachers make learning in their classes fun?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

I think so, within reason. When learning is enjoyable, students are naturally more engaged and retain information better. Interactive activities and real-world examples can make even dry subjects interesting. However, there should be a balance — entertainment shouldn't come at the expense of academic rigour.

3. Do you think it is good for older adults to continue learning?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Without a doubt. Continuing to learn keeps the mind sharp and can reduce the risk of cognitive decline. Many older adults find great joy in learning new skills like painting, a foreign language, or using technology. It also gives them a sense of purpose and helps them stay connected with younger generations.

2.7 Describe a piece of technology (not a phone) that you would like to own

IELTS Part 2 — Cue Card

Describe a piece of technology (not a phone) that you would like to own. You should say:

- What it is
- How much it costs
- How you knew it
- And explain why you would like to own it.

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

The piece of technology I've been eyeing is the iPad Pro with the Apple Pencil. It retails for around 25 to 30 million VND, which is a pretty hefty price tag for a student like me.

I first discovered it when a popular Vietnamese YouTuber did a review of it for digital art and note-taking. Since then, I've been doing extensive research through comparison videos and forums.

The main reason I want it is for digital illustration. Right now, I'm using a budget drawing tablet connected to my laptop, which isn't very portable. With an iPad Pro, I could sketch and design anywhere — in a cafe, on the bus, or even during boring lectures. The screen quality is apparently phenomenal for colour-accurate artwork.

On top of that, it would be incredibly useful for university. I could annotate lecture slides, organise my notes digitally, and reduce paper use. It's basically a creative tool and productivity device rolled into one. Owning an iPad Pro would be a real game-changer for both my studies and my freelance work. I'm saving up for one right now.

Part 3 — Discussion Questions

1. What are the differences between the technology of the past and that of today?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

The most obvious difference is the speed of development. In the past, advancements took decades, whereas now they happen in years. Modern technology is also far more integrated into daily life. Another key difference is accessibility — technology used to be a luxury, but today even advanced devices are affordable for most people.

2. What technology do young people like to use?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Young people are heavily drawn to social media platforms like TikTok, Instagram, and YouTube. Beyond entertainment, we rely on productivity tools like Notion and creative apps like Canva. Gaming technology is another huge area. Overall, young people gravitate towards technology that's mobile, connected, and visually engaging.

3. Do you think technology has changed the way people communicate?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Dramatically, yes. Instant messaging and video calling mean we can maintain relationships across vast distances. However, this convenience comes at a cost — digital communication lacks the depth and emotional warmth of face-to-face interaction. There's also the issue of people becoming overly dependent on screens, which can actually make them feel more isolated despite being constantly connected.

2.8 Describe a perfect job you would like to have in the future

IELTS Part 2 — Cue Card

Describe a perfect job you would like to have in the future. You should say:

- What it is
- How you knew it
- What you need to learn to get this job
- And explain why you think it is a perfect job for you.

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

My dream job would be to work as a brand strategist at a creative agency. I first became aware of this career path during an internship fair at my university, where a representative from a marketing firm gave a really inspiring presentation about how they help businesses build their identities.

To get this job, I'd need to strengthen several skills. First, a solid understanding of market research and consumer psychology. I'm currently taking elective courses in these areas. Beyond theory, I'd also need strong creative skills — visual storytelling, copywriting, and design principles. My freelance graphic design experience has already given me a head start.

The reason it's a perfect fit for me is that it combines my two main interests: business strategy and creative design. I love the idea of helping a company find its unique voice and communicate it through visuals, campaigns, and storytelling. What excites me most is the opportunity to see the tangible impact of my work — knowing that the branding I create could shape how millions of people perceive a company.

Part 3 — Discussion Questions

1. What kind of job can be called a 'dream job'?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

I think a dream job aligns with your passions and gives you a sense of purpose while providing financial stability. It's not just about earning a high salary — it's about feeling fulfilled and motivated every day. Ideally, it should also offer work-life balance so you have time for personal interests and family.

2. What jobs do children want to do when they grow up?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Children tend to dream of glamorous or heroic jobs. Many want to be doctors, astronauts, firefighters, or pop stars. These days, young children increasingly say they want to be YouTubers or gamers, which reflects how much digital culture has influenced their aspirations. Of course, most children's career ambitions change dramatically as they grow older.

3. Is salary the main reason why people choose a certain job?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

It's a major factor, but not the only one. While everyone needs to earn a living, studies consistently show that job satisfaction, work-life balance, and career growth are equally important. Some individuals willingly accept lower salaries to work in fields they're passionate about, like teaching or social work. So it's more of a balancing act than a single deciding factor.

2.9 Describe a child who loves drawing/painting

IELTS Part 2 — Cue Card

Describe a child who loves drawing/painting. You should say:

- Who he/she is
- What he/she likes to draw
- How often he/she draws
- And explain why you think he/she likes drawing.

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

I'd like to talk about my little cousin, Nhi, who is seven years old and absolutely obsessed with drawing. Every time I visit my aunt's house, I find Nhi sitting at the kitchen table surrounded by scattered crayons and sketchbooks, completely lost in her own creative world.

She loves drawing animals — especially cats and rabbits — and she has this unique style where all her animals have exaggerated, comically large eyes, which is honestly adorable. She also enjoys drawing scenes from her favourite cartoons and occasionally attempts to sketch family members, though the results are hilariously disproportionate. Nhi draws almost every single day, sometimes for hours on end. Her parents told me she even doodles during meals if they don't keep an eye on her. She recently won a small art competition at her primary school, which absolutely made her day.

I think she loves drawing because it gives her a way to express herself without words. At her age, children often struggle to articulate complex feelings, and art provides a natural outlet. Plus, her parents have always encouraged her creativity by buying her art supplies and praising her work, which has really nurtured her passion.

Part 3 — Discussion Questions

1. What is the right age for a child to learn drawing?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

I don't think there's a strict right age. Children naturally start scribbling as early as two or three, and that instinct should be encouraged. Structured art classes can probably begin around five or six when children have developed enough fine motor skills to hold pencils properly and follow basic instructions.

2. Why do most children draw more often than adults do?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Children have fewer responsibilities and more free time. They also tend to be less self-conscious about their abilities — they draw for pure enjoyment without worrying about results. Adults often become overly critical of themselves or simply don't prioritise creative activities because of work and family commitments.

3. How do artworks inspire people?

Sample 1: Student Persona (Band 7-8)

Art has the power to evoke emotions, challenge perspectives, and spark new ideas. A beautiful painting might make someone feel peaceful or nostalgic, while a provocative piece could encourage them to think about social issues differently. For creative professionals, studying great artworks serves as a wellspring of inspiration. In essence, art connects people to deeper truths about the human experience.
