SPEAKING PROMPT

Describe an occasion when you were not allowed to use your mobile phone - When it was - Where it was - Why you were not allowed to use your mobile phone - And how you felt about it

I would like to describe a time when I was not allowed to use my mobile phone. This happened last year when I was taking a very important final exam at my university. The exam was in a large, quiet hall, and there were many teachers watching us to make sure everything was fair.

Before the test started, the teacher said very clearly that no one could have a mobile phone on their desk. We were not allowed to use them because the school wanted to prevent cheating. If anyone was caught with a phone, they would fail the exam immediately. So, I had to turn off my phone and put it inside my backpack at the front of the room.

During the exam, I felt a little bit nervous because I usually check my phone every ten minutes. However, because I didn't have my phone, I felt more focused on my questions. It was actually good to be away from the screen for two hours. In the end, I felt relieved when the exam finished and I could finally check my messages again. It was a strict rule, but I understand why it was necessary.

1. Do you think it is necessary to have laws on the use of mobile phones?

Yes, I think it is very necessary to have laws for mobile phones. For example, people should not use their phones while they are driving a car because it is very dangerous and can cause many accidents. Also, in some places like hospitals or schools, using phones can be noisy. Laws help everyone stay safe and keep these places quiet. Therefore, having clear rules is a good way to protect our society.

2. Is it a waste of time to take pictures with mobile phones?

No, I don't think taking pictures is a waste of time at all. Many people love to save their memories of holidays or parties with their families. Mobile phones make it very easy to take a photo anytime and anywhere. When we look at these photos later, we can remember happy moments from our past. Even though some people take too many photos, I still believe it is a great way to keep our special memories alive.

3. What positive and negative impact do mobile phones have on friendship?

Mobile phones have both good and bad effects on friendship. The positive side is that we can talk to our friends very easily using apps like Facebook or WhatsApp, even if they live far away. However, the negative side is that when friends meet in person, they often look at their phones instead of talking to each other. This can make people feel lonely or sad. In my opinion, we should use phones less when we are with friends.
